MSc Healthcare Management

■ Course Description

The MSc Healthcare Management, online master's degree, is ideal if you are already, or would like to be, a leader or manager in a health or social care setting. You'll build on your existing experience and gain the knowledge, skills and emotional tools to help reach your full potential as a manager. You'll study online giving you the flexibility to achieve your career aspirations around your other commitments.

Management and leadership in the health and social care sector is increasingly important worldwide, with The World Health Organization highlighting the need for managers to have appropriate competencies and the NHS promoting specific values and principles of care.

You'll learn how companies operate and compete in today's climate whilst developing the full range of business and management skills needed to help organisations achieve their strategic ambitions. You'll be able to use these skills to develop approaches to management and leadership, and be well equipped to put in place mechanisms which support the development of organisational learning.

You'll explore the important social and other factors which influence managing and leading both organisations and individuals, learning with other current and aspiring managers and leaders from a range of health and social care organisations from around the world.

Postgraduate Research Design

Designed to give you the tools you need in order to identify and plan research to address a real world problem within your practice, or address a gap in the existing knowledge within your field. It's designed for participants from across the Faculty which is reflected in the diverse content including: evaluating literature, designing research questions, systematic review procedures, qualitative and quantitative research methods and data analysis, issues of rigour and ethical considerations in research. We'll provide a framework for you to propose and justify a research question and design appropriate to your professional practice.

Dissertation (Major Project)

The Major Project, which is central to the Masters award, enables you to demonstrate your ability to synthesise learning from previous modules and use this learning as the basis for planning, conducting and writing up a research or work-based project. This project provides the opportunity for you to demonstrate: the ability to raise significant and meaningful questions in relation to your specialism; depth of knowledge which may involve working at current limits of theoretical and/or research understanding; critical understanding of research methods and its relationship to knowledge; awareness of and ability to develop solutions to ethical dilemmas likely to arise in their research or professional practice; the ability to draw meaningful and justifiable conclusions from information which may be complex or contradictory; the capability to expand or redefine existing knowledge to develop new approaches to changing situations and contribute to the development to best practice; the ability to communicate these processes in a clear and sophisticated fashion; and the capability to evaluate your work from the perspective of an autonomous reflective learner.
